

Jason Kunesch

Jason Kunesch is the CEO of Public Good Software, a for-purpose startup serving the public good through technology in Chicago, IL. Previously, he was Director of User Experience at Obama for America, a founder of Fuzzy Math, on the founding team of ThePoint (which grew up to be Groupon), an early designer at Orbitz, an adjunct faculty member at DePaul University and the School of the Art Institute of Chicago, and a bouncer at the Green Mill.

Jason has spoken at companies including Google, Intuit, and Microsoft and at conferences including UX Week, BAYCHI, Web Visions and more. His work has been featured in the New York Times, the Atlantic Monthly, BusinessWeek, TIME, Forbes, Crain's, the Chicago Tribune and other publications.

He finds simple solutions for gnarly problems wherever people meet technology. Find him on the internet @jdkunesch or jdkunesch.com or biking playing working parenting eating breathing dreaming living in Chicago, IL.