Associate, Katten Muchin Rosenman LLP

Fundraising Advocate, LAF Young Professionals Board

As an attorney at Katten Muchin Rosenman, Thomas J. Maas focuses chiefly on helping his clients resolve – or avoid – large, complex litigation. His practice primarily concentrates on disputes regarding alcoholic beverages, pharmaceutical products, intellectual property (e.g., patents and trademarks), and/or antitrust law. Thomas has been a member of the Young Professionals' Board (YPB) at LAF (the Legal Assistance Foundation) since 2011, and he has served as a Fundraising Advocate on its Executive Committee since 2013. In 2014, Thomas was instrumental in recruiting YPB, governing board, and donor support for LAF's #GivingTuesday Virtual Gala, a "(non)-event" that raised over $41,000 in one day for the legal aid organization. He has been a member of Katten's Pro Bono Honor Roll since its inception in 2012, focusing primarily on assisting refugees in obtaining asylum and other legal protections. He has also been active in civics education in Chicago, working with both the Constitutional Rights Foundation and the Muchin College Prep Academy to teach civics, debate, and/or mock trial techniques to Chicago area students.
