

Brad Hutchins

Senior Vice President, Development

Easter Seals

Brad Hutchins is the Senior Vice President of Development. He is responsible for advancing key areas of Development activity at Easter Seals, focusing on Corporate Development, Individual and Major Gifts, Foundations and Planned Giving. Brad's background includes extensive and diverse skills in development, business and healthcare. His leadership, program advancement and fundraising experience includes forging strategic sponsorships working with large national and international corporations and foundations, securing funds from federal sources, and soliciting major gifts from individual donors.

Prior to joining the Easter Seals team, Brad was in a similar role as the Director of Development and Corporate and Foundation Relations at the American Academy of Pediatrics. His efforts resulted in millions of dollars raised to help children across a wide spectrum of health related issues. Previous to that, Brad was the Chief Operating Officer at Oral Health America where he was responsible for fundraising, coalition and program development. With a Master of Arts Degree in Speech-Language Pathology, Brad worked at Marianjoy Rehabilitation Hospital and Clinics in leadership roles in rehabilitation services both as a Director and Vice President of Clinical Programs, and as the Director of Research at their Foundation in research and evaluation, and fundraising.

Brad is a Fellow of the American Speech Language Hearing Association's and has numerous publications and presentations on issues surrounding administration, swallowing disorders, and program design. His most recent publication published in Pediatrics, December 2015 is on creating shared values when working with corporations. He is active in his community, and is a former School Board Member and Board Member of Our Children Homestead. He is also Ex-Officio with the International Pediatric Association Foundation.