

Julia has worked collaboratively with community stakeholders and business leaders to identify and develop impactful partnership opportunities. She has vast fundraising experience and has worked with Marillac St. Vincent Family Services, The Field Museum, the Chicago Council on Global Affairs, and now with CCS Fundraising as senior director leading campaign efforts for major cultural institutions across Chicago. Additionally, Julia serves on the executive board of Social Responsibility Chicago – a nonprofit business professional group that works to accelerate positive change through public private partnerships.