

Elizabeth Halajian is the Director of Development for the Harris Theater for Music and Dance in Millennium Park. She began her career in the performing arts as a professional ballet dancer and educator. Since transitioning into arts administration ten years ago, her experiences have spanned major gift and annual fundraising, board relations, special event management, marketing and sales, and organizational culture leadership.

In her six seasons with the Harris, she has led growth in every area of the Theater's contributed income, including increasing the donor base by 40%, establishing a planned giving society, directing fundraising events grossing more than $3 million, and formalizing the Theater's sponsorship program.

Elizabeth holds a B.F.A. in Dance Performance from Butler University and is a graduate of Interlochen Arts Academy. She is a board member of the Association of Fundraising Professionals Chicago and Chicago Dancers United, an organization which improves the lives of professionals in the dance community.