

Alyson Whittlesey, CFRE

Aly Hall is the director for development at the Foundation for Endodontics. Since her start at the Foundation in 2010, she has served as the development coordinator, manager and in February 2017, became the director. The Foundation for Endodontics raises, stewards and shepherds funds to support endodontic research, education, access to care and public awareness. Her primary responsibilities are to oversee the execution of the Foundation's annual fundraising campaign, its funding initiatives, strategy and stewarding its financial investments.

Prior to her time at the Foundation for Endodontics, Aly worked for an association management firm in Saint Louis, Missouri, from 2008 -2010.

She earned her bachelor's degree in Journalism from the University of Missouri – Columbia, the nation's first dedicated School of Journalism. Aly also earned her Certified Fund Raising Executive status in March 2016. Aly serves on the Association of Fundraising Professionals Chicago Board of Directors and is the VP of Continuous Learning, which plans and executes various CE events and an annual conference.

Aly is a native of Dallas, Texas, where she travels often to visit family and eat the best Mexican food. When she is not at work, Aly enjoys exercising, playing with her miniature dachshund Joseph, traveling to visit family and friends across the country and enjoying all that the city of Chicago has to offer
