

Anand Varghese is the Senior Director of Individual Giving at the Greater Chicago Food Depository. In this role, Anand is responsible for leading a team focused on supporting individual donors at all levels by connecting them to Food Depository's mission of addressing the root causes of hunger. Anand has over 21 years of non-profit experience within the areas of training, program development, management and fundraising. Prior to joining the Greater Chicago Food Depository in 2013, he spent 12 years in disability services arena in a variety of roles including developing and implementing training curricula for staff serving people with disabilities and fundraising. Anand attended University of Illinois at Chicago and earned his BA in Applied Psychology.